

David D. Knoll AM

Barrister, 9 Selborne Chambers

David D. Knoll AM is a barrister at 9 Selborne Chambers in Sydney, with a strong commitment to first-class service and to cost-effective dispute resolution, recognising that solicitors are responsible to their clients for the delivery of outcomes at reasonable cost. He was admitted to the Bar in 1998, having been admitted to practice as a solicitor in 1984.

His equity and commercial practice is principally in the NSW Supreme Court and in the Federal Court of Australia. He also appears in the District Court of NSW and the New South Wales Civil and Administrative Tribunal.

In January 2019, David was appointed editor of Strata Laws NSW, the premier legal service concerning strata and community title law in NSW, and was admitted as a Fellow of the Australian College of Strata Lawyers.

In the field of strata law his most recent published paper is: Quality standards for tribunal decision making in strata disputes \(2023\)

David also is Adjunct Associate Professor of Law at the University of NSW, where he teaches Commercial Law.
