

Alissa Paulson

National Indigenous Family Liaison Officer, Federal Circuit and Family Course of Australia

Alissa is a proud Biripi, Worimi and Dunghutti woman. Alissa has a Bachelors degree in Criminal Justice and is currently completing her last year of the Bachelor of Laws. Alissa also holds qualifications in Business Administration.

Alissa has a strong work history with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander families in Uniting with Youth and Families, Acmena Juvenile Justice Centre, Drug and Alcohol Services and considerable experience in the health sector including working in the Port Kembla and Manning Base Hospitals in an administrative capacity.

Alissa's personal and professional connections to local Indigenous Communities runs from the Macleay Valley, Hastings River, Mid North Coast and the Newcastle area. Alissa very much enjoys working in the Family Law space and looks forward to continuing her legal journey in this specialised field supporting First Nations families and communities.
