

Carly Stebbing

Partner, Longton Legal

Carly Stebbing is an award winning employment lawyer with almost two decades of experience acting for some of Australian's largest employers, senior executives and employees. Carly is also the founder of the tech enabled firm Resolution123. Resolution123 recently joined the Longton Law Group.

Carly is a leader in the Respect@Work reforms and the new positive duty to eliminate sexual harassment, having worked on the idea from its inception through the production of submissions on the law and required reforms with Now Australia, the Employment Law Committee of the Law Society and as a Executive Committee Member of the Women Lawyer's Association.

Carly serves on the Law Society of New South Wales Employment Law Committee and Diversity Committee. Carly's accolades include: recommended as an Employment Lawyer (Employee & Trade Union Representation) in Doyle's Guide, Lawyers Weekly Women in Law Innovator of the Year, Lawyers Weekly Partner of the Year Finalist in Workplace Relations and WLANSW Change Champion of the Year. Carly is regularly called on to contribute to media articles and podcasts related to employment law and the practice of law.

THE LAW SOCIETY
OF NEW SOUTH WALES